WW2 Propaganda Poster

Britain's success in the war was dependent on people joining together and not losing hope. The British government formed The Ministry of Information which produced posters and films as propaganda; information that changed how the public viewed the war and encouraged them to continue with the war effort. Often, propaganda was used to get people involved in the war effort.

Use the space below to design your own Air Force propaganda poster.